SPACEARIUM

With the Spacearium, you see underwater by looking up. It's an acrylic, elliptical tank that hangs from the ceiling, attached to the beams with stainless steel mounting rails. Concealed hoses carry fresh or salt water to and from the tank, and a filter—also concealed—can be installed as far as 15 feet from the aquarium. According to the manufacturer, the filter is sufficiently strong to keep maintenance to a minimum. The tank can be purely decorative, or it can serve as a captivating divider between two living areas. The Spacearium comes in widths of 5, 6, or 8 feet, and prices range from $4,900 to $8,400.

RITZ-CARLTON, GRAND CAYMAN DECKHOUSE

Grand Cayman's tax-haven status can be a tipping point if you're thinking about purchasing a vacation property. If so, then the pot is sweetened further with the availability of the Ritz-Carlton, Grand Cayman's new DeckHouses at Dragon Bay, a gated cluster of 19 three-level, five-bedroom waterfront homes on the resort's island-spanning property. Each residence has a pool, wraparound decking, a guest-house, and a boathouse, with access to a private beach and cove. In addition, residents can enjoy the resort's Greg Norman golf course, Jean-Michel Cousteau Ambassadors of the Environment nature programs, Nick Bollettieri tennis center, La Prairie Silver Rain spa, and dining at restaurants that include Eric Ripert's Blue. The DeckHouses start at $4.5 million, and are built to owners' customization.
